

every model receives more relative push early (median 1.82x), so matched push scales per layer

